

Christoph Stieg

Managing Partner, Founder perfect training
Sparring/Coaching, Consulting/Development

„I like helping demanding people with ambitious goals. My strength and passion lies in identifying the key to positive development and setting it into motion with systems and structures.“

Stieg believes in change and in growth. He demands it. He pushes people and their organisation as required. He understands their challenges, questions their goals, their attitudes, their history and their experiences. He works with them to find action-orientated solutions for a more effective approach and communication in change processes and targeted interventions.

International clients benefit from his skills and experience in the following areas:

- entrepreneurial sparring for strategy and objectives
- executive coaching in leadership and sales methods
- designing and implementing strategic corporate and personnel development
- analysis, diagnosis and advice for optimisation of management, sales, service solutions
- measurable increases in the effectiveness of training concepts and measures
